Programme outcomes:

The programme outcomes (PO) of any programme of the institution addresses two components in a person:

(1) Individual upliftment

(2) Social adaptability

(1) Individual upliftment: This involves the shaping of a person to evolve out and bring in the best to face the world without fear.

(2) Social adaptability: This involves the responsibility and the resonance of a person to the world around.

Programme specific outcomes:

The Programme Specific Outcomes (PSO) of each programme is tailored in such a way that finally it reflects the Programme Outcomes (PO). This involves a systematic and a holistic approach over a period of time and finally giving the individual:

(1) Acquisition of knowledge

(2) Garnering of skills

(3) Shaping of personality

(4) Attitude for Progress

(5) March-on to make a Mark

(1) Acquisition of knowledge: The student is made to acquire knowledge by various means listening, questioning, investigating, doing*, interpreting etc.*

(2) Garnering of skills: Hands on experience in doing what they learn hone their operative skills. This gives confidence to face the real world later.

(3) Shaping of Personality: The shaping of personality includes moral behaviour, leadership quality, social attitude, mental toughness, physical fitness etc. may not be a part of the course outcome but definitely part of any programme. This is taken care at every level

(4) Attitude for Progress: The final outcome of any programme is to bring in the best in every individual and imbibe the interest for further progress. This would take care of the next level in life.

(5) March-on to make a Mark: This is the point where they spread their wings to reach the pinnacle of glory. The programme specific outcomes (PSO) are to see this dream come true.
