Objectives :

- To facilitate institutions of higher education to function as socially responsible centres using their knowledge for promoting livelihoods and sustainability among local communities.
- To use the knowledge residing in higher education institutions, among academicians and researchers, for educating people on responsibilities of preservation and sustainable utilization of natural resources.
- To explore new areas of bio scientific achievements and research opportunities
- To revisit existing curriculum, and integrate into the curriculum work-based learning especially in the area of bio sciences.
- To motivate students to see the relevance of the knowledge they are acquiring for larger society and sustainability, helping them to enter new areas of enterprise to promote knowledge-based economy and innovation.
- To motivate and kindle in students interest in contemporary developments in science especially in domains such as Botany and Life Sciences.
- To inculcate values of Bio sciences among the students for building a better humanity and to know that knowledge is best served when science and society walk together.
- The proposed seminar will offer a platform for the experts in the field of Bio sciences to share their scientific knowledge and insights, to discuss new trends in the field, and to provide momentum for 'Biodiversity Based Economy' and connect campuses to communities.

About the college:

St. Philomena's college is well known as the first undergraduate science college in Mysore established in 1946. Over the years, it has evolved and carved a niche for itself. It has students from 18 states and 26 countries. It has maintained and nurtured its green environment spread over 24 acres of land. Being sensitive to ecosystem and protection of environment, it upholds a policy against felling of trees. The UGC has recognised St. Philomena's as a 'College of Excellence'. The College is known for promoting academic excellence, research pursuit and is committed to conserve and protect environment. In this context, the Departments of Life sciences are organizing a two-day seminar on 'Biodiversity based Economy'.
